

MARViN

indietronica to feel the Life, the Universe and Everything with your ears deep in the sound and your eyes deep in the colours.

MARViN, whose name is inspired by the “paranoid android” of Douglas Adams’s famous novel “Hitchhiker’s Guide to the Galaxy”, is a project born in 2005 from the ten-year collaboration between Donato Masci e Nicola Torpei.

It is an indietronica project whose pieces are born on guitar like real songs. Subsequently, there is a meticulous phase when all the material is destroyed and then recomposed in an unusual way, far from conventional solutions of arrangement.

Christopher Martinuzzi, an English mothertounge singer is the author of all the lyrics and the melodies. He introduces in MARViN’s sound the clarinet, which is an instrument that is used both live and in studio to create soundscapes, melodies and electronic elaborations.

2006. The four tracks of the Promo EP were recordered in this year. It was welcomed so positively among the experts that in October 2006 Alessio Bertalot and DJ Aladyn asked MARViN to compose six jingles of thirty seconds each for their radio program B-Side on Radio DeeJay.

2007. MARViN’s live sets begin with the performances at the MUV Festival, Italia Wave Love Festival and other concerts in clubs in Florence. The experimentation with SoundKino project, managed by Switch agency, offered MARViN the opportunity to perform in a spatially-audio-environment at Festival della Creatività in November 2007.

MARViN are now completing the songs of their first LP, which is due in 2008.

In the mean time, the video production is continuing with the collaboration of the designers Elena Lombardi (unit9, London) and Marco Tavarnesi, while the live activity is with the VJ Michele Fiaschi.
